

LYSE DZIJA <http://www.lysedzija.com> / lysedzija@comcast.net

I feel that landscape paintings are subject to a wide range of interpretations, especially those that simply present the subject without attaching a popular interpretation. The more time I spend in the wilderness, the more I realize its subtle effects on feelings which evolve with every visit, place, and season.

MARK HARRIS <http://www.markyaleharris.com> / markyharris@artworkinternational.com

The purpose of my artwork is to invoke an awakening of the sensual. Stimulating a perceptual, internal, and intellectual response for the viewer: a visual that speaks to life's experiences! I have created an evolving body of work in alabaster, marble, limestone, and bronze. Combining different elements, I bring forth a duality in the sculptures that I create.

JANET LARSEN hikerartist@gmail.com

In my paintings I strive to capture the beauty and peace of the natural world as I have experienced it, as well as the feeling of awe and wonder I get when I am immersed in nature. I get much of my inspiration from the long walks and hikes I take both near my home in Loveland, Colorado, and hiking in other parts of the world. I sometimes wonder if I am a painter who likes to hike, or a hiker who likes to paint. Art, like life, is a journey, a road to discovery, so I continue learning as an artist, seeking to improve the way I do art, and the way I see the world around me.

DAPHNA RUSSELL DaphnaRussellStudio@juno.com

When confronted with the choice to specialize in the arts, Daphna Russell chose sculpture for which she had a special bent. Her subjects are primarily animals, figures and liturgical works and are mostly biomorphic and abstracted to their essence. Daphna is collected across the US and Europe. She has art in public places as well as many private galleries.

JOHN SCHMITZER <http://schmitzerfineart.com> / schmitzer7@comcast.net

I am a local Loveland painter and sculptor. I paint in oil on canvas and my subject matter includes landscapes, cityscapes, figures, and wildlife. I paint in vivid colors and prefer local scenes.
